FOREWORD

Untouchability is the outcome of practice of casteism, carried on from generation to generation with the communities concerned not making conscious efforts to root out the problem. Despite the contemporary public opinion and a determined effort to eradicate the problem, by making 'untouchability' an offence punishable under the law; the problem still remains, particularly in the rural areas where the masses are illiterate and where feudalism still persists.

- 2. Untouchability stood abolished by Article 17 of the Constitution and despite this even today after 40 years of the Constitution coming into force, we come across frequently caste offences committed in different parts of the country and some of these offences make the nation feel ashamed. Certain sections of our community still continue to retain in them a feeling of superiority and do not want to treat human-beings as human-beings.
- 3. The Protection of Civil Rights Act, 1955 came into force on 1st June, 1955 and this Act was comprehensively amended by the Amendment Act, 1976. Even though the penal measures provided under this Act are not that stringent viewed in today's context, it is a sad reflection on the administration that no effective measures are taken for enforcing this Act.

Further the cases registered under this Act are almost negligible compard to the various offences that get reported in various newspapers all over the country.

Under the law, the persons who commit caste offences could be detained by the police authorities and they cannot be given bail and special courts could be constituted for trying them for the offences.

Despite these stringent provisions under the Law, the perpetrators of the offences are not arrested and even those who are charge-sheeted are finally let off without any meaningful punishment. Cases remain pending also in the courts for a long time. The ineffective enforcement of the law encourages certain sections of the community, to feel that they are a superior lot and the other sections of the community, could continue to be oppressed and exploited.

- 4. This trend has to be reversed and the implementing authorities everywhere should realise this aspect and in this year of social justice, make sure that both preventive and punitive actions are taken so that caste offences substantially decline and are ultimately wiped out.
- 5. Bharat Ratna late Dr. B.R. Ambedkar, the greatest ever champion of the Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and Backward Classes, had observed as under on untouchability:
  - "Untouchability is the notion of defilement, pollution, contamination and the ways and means of getting rid of that defilement. It is a case of permanent, hereditary stain which nothing can cleanse."
- 6. Unfortunately, what late great 'Ambedkar' had observed remains true even today and it is a disgrace for the people of the country as a wole that we continue to practise untouchability against unfortunate breathren of our own.

- 7. During the year 1990, a number of positive steps have been taken by the Government to ensure that the Scheduled Castes get protection and encouragement for their socio-economic uplift. The strategy for development of Scheduled Castes includes meaningful formulation of Special Component Plans, making available larger quantum of Special Central Assistance and providing all facilities and encouragements to the Scheduled Castes Development Corporations in the States so that in a co-ordinated manner the programmes for the socio-economic upliftment of the Sch. Castes may take place.
- 8. Government have brought into force the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989, w.e.f. 30th January, 1990. Government had also taken up with the State governments to set up Special Courts in each districts and wherever possible exclusive Special Courts in districts which are prone to atrocities and the State Governments have also been advised to draw up appropriate schemes for the socio-economic upliftment and rehabilitation of the victims of atrocities.
- 9. Government have given the status of Scheduled Castes to Neo-Budhists. The National Commission for SCs and STs has been given constitutional status with vast powers and the Chairman has the status of a Cabinet Minister. One of the statutory powers given to the Commission relates to inquiry into specific complaints in respect of deprivation of rights and safeguards of the Scheduled Castes as laid down in the Constitution.
- 10. This report is for the two years i.e. 1987 and 1988 and it gives in detail the position as exists in the various States/UTs on the aspect of implementation of the provisions of the Protection of Civil Rights Act, 1955 and also gives statistical data on the work done by the State Governments and U.T Administrations. The report also lists the various measures Central Government had taken for co-ordinating the efforts of the States for ensuring implementation of the Act and the measures taken for giving wide publicity to the contents and philosophy of working in a caste free society. The report also lists the machinery available with States and UTs, the authorities to be contacted, the courts where cases are to be filed and the measures by way of legal aid, etc. that are available for the Scheduled Castes living in different corners of this country.

INTRODUCTION

Within five years of the adoption of the Constitution of the Republic of India, Parliament set to work on a statue to spell out the practical details and application of the principles embodied in the Fundamental Rights. The result was the Untouchability (Offences) Act of 1955. For enlarging the scope and making its penal provisions more stringent, the Act was comprehensively amended in November 1976, with penal provisions and new features to curb the practice of untouchability. With this amendment, the name of the Act was also changed to The Protection of Civil Rights Act, 1955. This Act has fixed the responsibility on the Government of India to lay in the Parliament every year a report on the measures taken by itself and by the State Governments, which are aimed at eradication of untouchability.

- 2. The Government of India has so far laid nine reports since the Protection of Civil Rights Act, 1955 came into force one each for calendar years 1977 to 1980, 1983, 1984, 1985, 1986 and one combined Report for the two years 1981 and 1982. This combined Annual Report the years 1987 and 1988 is the Govts. tenth Report. As for the Ministry of Welfare is concerned this is the fourth Report that is being placed in the parliament.
- 3. For enabling the Central Government to lay the Report in pursurance of Section 15(A) of the Protection of Civil Rights Act, 1955 on the Table of each House of Parliament, every State Govt and UT Admn. is required to furnish to the Central Government before the 15th February each year a summary of the measures taken by them during the preceding year as required under Sub-Sections (1) & (2) of Section 15A of the Act and also to furnish such other information as may be required by the Central Government from time to time. Details about the number of cases registered under Protection of Civil Rights Act, 1955 and their disposal during the years 1986,1987 and 1988 as per information furnished by the State Governments are given in Annexures I, II and III respectively.
- A statement showing variations in number of cases registered during 1987 and 1988 (Annexure IV) reveals that the number of fresh cases registered had increased sharply in Madhya Pradesh (254 in 1986 to 480 in 1987) U.P(338 in 1986 to 442 in 1987) and Andhra Pradesh (186 in 1986 to 330 in 1987) and slightly in the States of Goa, Haryana, Punjab, Rajasthan and Delhi. On the other hand, there had been decrease in the cases registered in the States of Tamil Nadu, Maharashtra, Kerala, Karnataka, Gujarat, Himachal Pradesh and Pondicherry. No cases had been registered in the North Eastern States which are predominatly inhabited by S.Ts and untouchability is reported to be not a problem in that region. Tripura and West Bengal have also reported that there had been no untouchability cases in their States during 1987. The variations in the number of cases registered during 1988 over 1987 is given in Annexure V. It is seen from the same that there had been sharp increase of cases registered in Rajasthan, Karnataka, and Andhra Pradesh and slight increase in the States of H.P., Goa, Kerala and the UTs of Pondicherry and Chandigarh. On the other hand, there had been decrease in the number of cases registered in Uttar Pradesh, Bihar, Gujarat, J & K, Maharashtra, M.P., Punjab and Tamil Nadu and the U.T. of Delhi. The State Government of Tripura & West Bengal have reported that no untouchability cases had been reported in their States during 1988. A perusal of Annexure IV will reveal that Tamil Nadu (1016) had registered maximum number of cases during 1987 followed by Karnataka (658), U.P. (442), Maharashtra (318), Madhya Pradesh (480), Andhra Pradesh (330), Rajasthan (211) and Gujarat (179). During 1988, the States which had registered maximum number of cases are Tamil Nadu (886), Karnataka (833), M.P. (444), A.P. (393), U.P. (386) Maharashtra (306), Rajasthan (230) and Gujarat (107).

The position and percentage of cases disposed of at police level in different States for 1987 and 1988 is given in Annexures VI & VII. It is observed that including the cases brought forward from the previous years Tamil Nadu has the highest number (294) of cases closed during the year 1987 after investigation and also the number of cases challaned (708) in the courts. As regards the number of cases closed by police, Tamil Nadu is followed by A.P. (293), Karnataka (255), U.P. (104) Rajasthan (114) and Maharashtra (85), while in cases challanted in the Courts Tamil Nadu is followed by M.P. (502), Karnataka (487), U.P. (336), A.P. (295), Maharashtra (294), Gujarat (166). During the year 1988 the cases including brought forward from the previous years, Andhra Pradesh has the highest number (435) of cases closed after investigation, the highest number of cases challaned in the Courts (614) is in Tamil Nadu. As regards the number of cases closed by the police, Andhra Pradesh (435) is followed by Karnataka (275), Tamil Nadu (238) Rajasthan (106) and U.P. (84).

The details about the cases disposed of by courts State-wise during 1987 and 1988 is given in Annexures VIII & IX. Considering the number of cases brought forward from the previous year during 1987 the maximum number of convictions was in U.P. (123) followed by Andhra Pradesh (116) Tamil Nadu (57) Madhya Pradesh (19), Rajasthan (16) & Kerala (16). As regards acquittal, the highest number was in Andhra Pradesh (785) followed by Tamil Nadu (610), Karnataka (322), U.P. (176), Gujarat (97) & M.P. (49). The number of cases pending with the court at the end of 1987 was maximum in M.P. (1442), Maharashtra (1031), Tamil Nadu (1030), Karnataka (879), U.P. (618), Rajasthan (540), A.P. (375), Gujarat (350), & Kerala (67).

During 1988, the maximum number of conviction was in U.P. (109) followed by A.P. (69), Tamil Nadu (51), Kerala (31), and Karnataka (16). Regarding acquittal, the highest number was in Tamil Nadu (456), Karnataka (361), A.P. (283), U.P. (128), Gujarat (106), M.P. (50) and Orissa (35). The number of cases pending with the courts at the end of 1988 was maximum in M.P. (1836), followed by Tamil Nadu (1137), Karnataka (990), Maharashtra (956), U.P. (668) Rajasthan (634), A.P. (443), Orissa (381) and Gujarat (329).

In many States, the number of untouchability cases registered during 1988 when compared to 1987 has decreased considerably. However, increase in the number of Protection of Civil Rights Act cases in other States clearly shows that untouchability is still practiced in different parts of the country, though not in its crude form. This calls for prompt and effective encorcement of various provisions of the Protection of Civil Rights Act, if need be by further strengthening the existing machinery for complete eradication of untouchability and its evils.

This Report has been divided into two Chapters. In Chapter I, details about the measures taken by the Central Government for the over all development of Scheduled Castes including eradication of untouchability have been given. Chapter II deals with the various measures taken by the State Governments/Union Territory Administrations towards eradication of untouchability.

CHAPTER-I MEASURES TAKEN BY GOVERNMENT OF INDIA TOWARDS ERADICATION OF UNTOUCHABILITY

The population of Scheduled Castes in the country according to 1981 census is 10.48 crores. which constitutes 15.75% of the total population. Of the total SC population approximately 84% live in rural areas, in segregated bastis and hamlets. 75% of the total Scheduled Caste population in the country live in Uttar Pradesh, West-Bengal, Bihar, Tamil Nadu, Andhra Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan and Karnataka and the remaining 25% of them is spread over the rest of the country. The institution of caste has been one of the exclusive characteristics of the Indian Society since early ages. As a result a large majority of them suffer from the social discrimination called untouchability. Inspite of great changes in the history of India, caste has remained an important factor in deciding the destiny of every Hindu in our Country. With the passage of time, the classes which pursued unclean and obnoxious occupations like sweeping, scavenging, carrying night soil, flaying, tanning, etc., were treated as out castes. Even now in rural areas they are not allowed to draw water from common well, not served tea in tea shops, not allowed to pass through Caste Hindu localities wearing chappals, prohibited to ride a horse during their marriage, to quote a few examples. A breach of any of the customs dictated by the caste Hindus leads to caste conflict. In urban areas, untouchability is not practised that openly. It is thus mostly covert in its form.

- 2. The untouchability and other forms of social disabilities the Scheduled Castes are subjected to, attracted the attention of prominent leaders since early ages. However, the movement to eradicate the evil practice of untouchability gathered momentum during freedom struggle and received considerable support from its leaders. Gandhiji took this evil practice to heart and made it part of his mission to fight this evil. Dr. B.R. Ambedkar having suffered the indignities, did what all he could to bring home to those who mattered, the evil of the oppressive caste system, the disabilities the Scheduled Castes were subjected to, seeking measures for their redressal.
- 3. When India got Independence and adopted a constitution for it, Article 17 clearly spelt-out that untouchability was abolished and its practice in any form was prohibited. The Untouchability (Offences) Act, 1955 was enacted in furtherance of that Article. It was soon realised, that the Act was not meaningfully serving the purpose for which it was enacted and that the punishments awarded under the Act were too few and inadequate. Hence the Untouchability (Offences) Act (Amendment and Miscellaneous Provisions) Bill, 1972 was introduced in the Lok Sabha in April, 1972. This bill with comprehensive amendments as proposed by the Joint Select Committee was passed by the Parliament in September 1976, with certain modifications, and the amended Act came into force from 19.11.1976. By this Amendment Act the original Untouchability (Offences) Act was also renamed as "Protection of Civil Rights Act, 1955". In this Act, civil rights have been clearly defined as any right accruing to a person by reason of the abolition of untouchability under Article 17 of the Constitution.
- 4. Some of the main features of this Act are that all types of untouchability cases which were cognizable but compoundable under the old Act have been made cognizable as well as non-compoundable. The punishment for committing untouchability offences which was imprisonment extendable to 6 months or fine upto Rs. 500 or both has been quantified. For the first offence, the minimum punishment will be imprisonment for one month and fine of Rs. 100 and maximum imprisonment for six months and fine of Rs. 500. For the second offence, the minimum punishment will be imprisonment for six months and fine of Rs. 200 and the maximum imprisonment of one year and fine Rs. 500. For the third and subsequent offences, the punishment may range from imprisonment for one year and find of Rs. 500 to imprisonment for two years and fine of Rs. 1000. The public servants who wilfully show negligence in the investigation of any offence punishable under the Act are deemed to have abetted an offence punishable under the Act.

- 5. Under Section 15.A (2) of the Act, the State Governments are required to take measures for providing adequate facilities including Legal Aid, appointment of Officers for initiating or exercising superivision over prosecutions, setting up of Special Courts/Mobile Courts, appointment of Committees at appropriate levels, provisions for periodic surveys on the working of the provisions of this Act and identification of untouchability prone areas and any other measures which the State Government may think fit for removal of untouchability.
- 6. The Central Government has, for the first time, been made responsible with the task of coordinating the measures taken by the State Governments under Section 15A of the Act and to place on the Tables of each House of Parliament every year a report on the measures taken by itself and the State Governments in pursuance of Section 15A(4) of the PCR Act.
- 7. For proper implementation of PCR Act, 1955 in the country, the Government of India is coordinating the various measures taken by the State Governments by providing matching grant for setting up/continuing and for further strengthening the administrative machinery to ensure effective implementation of various provisions of PCR Act and any other measures that the State Government may feel necessary towards eradication of untouchability. During the Sixth Plan period, a sum of Rs. 15.11 crores had been released as central assistance to various State Governments/U.T. Administrations towards implementation of various measures under PCR Act. During the 7th Five Year Plan, 1985-86 to 1989-90 a sum of Rs. 4,600 lakhs were released as central assistance under the scheme of PCR Act implementation.
- 8. The inhuman practice of removing night soil and filth physically by scavengers is greatly responsible for perpetuating untouchability in our society. The members of Scheduled Castes engaged in this unclean occupation have customarily been assigned the lowest position in the caste hierarchy in our country. Keeping in view that liberation of scavengers from the demeaning job of scavenging is prerequisite for removing their social disabilities, the Government of India took initiative in this regard by taking up a programme on a pilt basis in 1980-81 for the liberation of scavengers as a Centrally Sponsored Scheme under the implementation of PCR Act. This programme has so far been taken up in 19 States with the help of matching assistance from the Central Government. Matching central assistance of Rs. 42.97 crores was released for conversion of dry latrines into low cost water borne ones in 224 towns mostly small and medium towns/ municipalities in 19 States up to end of 1988-89 (Annexure X).
- 9. The Ministry of Welfare has been constantly stressing the State Governments to come up with their proposals for making towns/localities scaveging free and to adopt such measures so as to prevent construction of dry latrines in new localities. The State Govts. and Administration of Union Territories are being advised that children of scavengers are given facilities to learn other skills and are rehabilitated in other jobs. Towards elimination of scavenging on a national level, the Ministry of Welfare, is keeping a constant touch with the Ministry of Urban Development. Highest priority is given to the schemes for conversion of dry latrines into sanitary ones in urban areas and to amend the Municipal Act/By-Laws to prohibit the construction of new latrines requiring carriage of human waste manually.
- 10. Guidelines have also been issued by the Central Government to the State Governments and Union Territory adminstrations detailing a package of prcautionary, preventive, punitive and rehabilitative measures for dealing effectively with cases of crime and untouchability against Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes. Continued and sustained efforts are being made by the officials of the Ministry of Welfare to impress upon the State Governments/UT Administrations for improving and strengthening the machinery for implementation of the provisions of the PCR Act, 1955.

11. The Ministry of Welfare had entrusted the National Commission for Scheduled Castes & Scheduled Tribes, the "Study on Problems of Untouchability" in the States and to report to Government their recommedations thereon as well as their advice and suggestions on the measures to be taken for effective enforcement of the provisions of the Protection of Civil Rights, Act, 1955. The Commission after conducting a study in the States of Bihar, Karnataka, Kerala, Maharashtra, Rajasthan, Tamil Nadu and Uttar Pradesh has submitted its report. The main recommentadions of the Commission (listed in Annexure XII) were sent to all the State Govts./UT Admns.., with the objective of ensuring that the practice of untouchability and other offences relating to Scheduled Castes/Scheduled Tribes, as identified in the report, are appropriately dealt with and remedial measures are taken so that there is total check on commission of such offences.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE NATIONAL COMMISSION

On the basis of the study conducted by the National Commission for Scheduled Castes & Scheduled Tribes on the "Study on problems of untouchability" in the States of Bihar, Karnataka, Kerala, Maharashtra, Rajasthan, Tamil Nadu and Uttar Pradesh, submitted their recommendations which is enumerated below:

- 1. The Central Government as also the State Governments should ensure wide publicity of the PCR Act so as to bring awareness about the provisions of the Act among the Scheduled Castes as also non-Scheduled Castes. Publicity and related activities both of the Central and State Governments should be carefully reviewed to make them impact-oriented and capable of reaching effectively the far-flung and remote habitations.
- 2. The Central Government should review the kind of facilities, including legal aid, being provided by the State Governments to the victims of untouchability and issue guidelines to ensure proper implementation of this provision of the PCR Act. Further the nature and extent of facilities should periodically be evaluated so that these eventually become purposive instruments for combating the practice of untouchability.
- 3. The Central Government should impress upon the State Governments to ensure that the officers appointed under this provision are utilized for initiating and exercising supervision over prosecution of all cases registered under the provision of the Act. The State Governments also need to ensure that special public prosecutors are appointed or earmarked to deal exclusively with the cases under the PCR Act in States where there is no such arrangement. These public prosecutors should be carefully selected and trained and brought under a scheme of reward and admonition for the success or otherwise of their labours.
- 4. The Central Government should take up the issue of Special Court with the concerned State Governments which have not yet set up Special Courts. Further the performance of the Special Courts should be carefully and critically watched in terms of mobility and timely disposal of cases.
- 5. The Central Government should request the State Governments to ensure periodical holding of meetings of such committees so as to make them functional and effective.
- 6. The Central Government and all draw the attention of the State Governments towards this matter and request them to ence that the working of the provisions of this Act are periodically evaluated and measures adopted for better implementation of the provisions of the PCR Act.
- 7. The Central Government should request the defaulting States to take up this work in hand without further delay and recation of untouchability-prone areas on a time-bound basis. So far as the States which have the nable to identify such areas or are in the process of completing this work, the Central Government should call upon them to make special efforts under other provisions generating programmes so as to foster awareness and accelerate economic progress.

- 8. The CentralGovernment should, instead of merely collecting the information received from the State Governments in its annual report, get such information critically examined and follow-up action taken simultaneously.
- 9. The Central Government should prepare a compendium of guidelines issued to the State Governments/UT Administrations on matters relating to removal of untouchability and circulate them to the concerned quarters.
- 10. The Central Government should take a fresh look at the grants released and also assess the impact of the scheme of liberation of scavengers on removal of untouchability.
- 11. The State Governments should give wide publicity to Inter-Caste Marriage scheme through mass media in order to encourage larger number of youths for inter-caste marriage.
- 12 The State Governments which have not yet launched scheme of rewarding villages/Grampanchayats for outstanding work towards removal of untouchability may also fall in line so as to bring about an environment of healthy competition at the village/Gram Sabha level.
- 13. The Central Government should review the impact of work being done by voluntary organisations keeping in view their constraint in matter of resources. There is also a need to draw up a long term phased programme for eradication of untouchability at the national level in consultation with the State Governments and the voluntary organisations. In order to bring about a feeling of healthy competition among the social workers, the State Governments should also consider launching a scheme of giving rewards along with commendation certificates to select social workers for their outstanding contribution towards eradication of untouchability.
- 14. The Government of India should have these twin institutions of 'Harijan Thanas' and 'special courts' investigated thoroughly in terms of the concrete results that they have produced so far.
